HAS – Hamesha Aapke Saath

Our post-possession care and facility management team – HAS (Hamesha Aapke Saath) – has redefined after-sales service in real estate. With dedicated professionals ensuring smooth handovers, maintenance, and customer support, HAS has helped build long-term relationships and set Jhamtani apart from its competitors. It reflects our philosophy that the journey with our customers truly begins after they receive their keys.

Together, We Rise

As we look ahead, the road is full of promise. With strong foundations, visionary leadership, and a team-first culture, Jhamtani Group is ready to embrace new opportunities, deliver new landmarks, and continue building a legacy – one brick, one dream, and one happy family at a time.

Mr. Anup Jhamtani
Managing Director

Hamesha Aapke Saath : 2 years of Being There, Always

Jhamtani Group's post-possession department completes a successful 2nd year, setting new benchmarks in customer care and community building.

When a family moves into their dream home, their journey should feel complete. At Jhamtani, we believe this moment is just the beginning.

Exactly 2 years ago, this belief led to the birth of Hamesha Aapke Saath—our dedicated post-possession services department. The goal was clear: to remain present, proactive, and dependable in the lives of our customers after possession. Today, HAS has grown into something far more meaningful than just a service desk. It has become a symbol of trust.

In the real estate industry, post-possession often lacks structure, empathy, or vision. HAS set out to change that. Built around a robust system of trained personnel, escalations, SOPs, community interaction, and legal support, the initiative is a first-of-its-kind in Pune's residential landscape.

"The idea was never to just fix problems," says one of the senior team members, "It was to stay emotionally available. To make customers feel they are not alone after moving in."

One Year. One Promise. Many Results - Recap of 2024

- 2180 complaints resolved – with a 100% closure rate
- 72 hours average complaint turnaround time

- 28% increase in Google Ratings (3.5 to 4.5)
- 15% drop in repeat complaints
- Referral sales up from 7% to 15%
- 10% repeat buyers

A 360° Approach to Post-Possession Life

The HAS journey starts right from snagging and handover, followed by flat-level maintenance support—electrical, plumbing, paintwork, seepage, carpentry—and common area facility management.

From there, the department helps residents navigate society formation, conducting AGMs, legal conveyance support, and even facilitating a smooth transition of management to the society committee.

But what makes HAS unique is its heart: JTribe Connect. A consistent stream of events, newsletters, and social media engagement creates a sense of community and keeps residents connected—not just to Jhamtani, but to each other.

Strong Systems. Human Touch.

What made this journey so successful wasn't just the service—it was the structure behind it.

A clear escalation matrix—from Facility Manager (Day 2) to Managing Director (Day 21)—ensures every complaint is tracked and resolved with ownership. Technicians undergo quarterly training not just in technical skills, but also in soft skills and hygiene.

Internally, checklists and reviews ensure nothing falls through the cracks. Regular complaint trackers, AMC reports, and monthly budgets are reviewed alongside customer feedback to keep the system honest, fast, and efficient.

Taking the Vision Beyond the Office

Meenakshi Jhamtani ma'am had honour of sharing the Hamesha Aapke Saath journey with the SYBA (Sindhi Youth Builders Association) a community of developers from Pune. Presenting this initiative to an external forum was a proud moment—not only for the team, but for Jhamtani's larger vision of being a thought leader in customer care.

The conversation centered around how post-possession care and structure can co-exist in real estate. The response was overwhelming—HAS resonated as a blueprint for future-ready post-possession care.

Looking Ahead

As HAS enters its third year, the goal is to continue being a partner in every resident's journey. The systems will keep evolving. The teams will keep improving. But one thing will never change—our commitment to be there, always.

Because at Jhamtani, we don't just build homes. We build relationships.

"Homes are built with brick and mortar, but communities are built with care—and that's what Hamesha Aapke Saath will always stand for."

From Daughter to Mother :

A Journey of Love, Loss, and New Beginnings

The journey from being a daughter to becoming a mother is an integral and transformative part of a woman's life. Like many others, my journey was filled with joy, sorrow, struggles, and triumphs. As a daughter, I always looked up to my mother. Her strength, wisdom, and unwavering spirit deeply impressed me, and unknowingly, I began preparing myself for the roles that awaited me.

Without realizing when, the daughter became a wife, and then a daughter-in-law. Thanks to the values and habits instilled in me since childhood, I managed to navigate this transition smoothly. Life moved forward in happiness, and soon, two beautiful flowers bloomed on our family vine — my children — bringing immense joy and fulfillment.

Just as everything seemed to be going perfectly, tragedy struck. Like a vehicle suddenly losing a wheel, my life lost its balance. The unexpected death of my husband shattered me completely. I was left alone — emotionally, mentally, and spiritually. My world, once full of color, turned grey. There was a time when the pain became unbearable, and I even thought of ending my life. But destiny had other plans.

Perhaps God wasn't done with me yet. Perhaps He didn't want the children of His children to be left alone. One day, my kids innocently said, "Mommy, we want to go to a nice place where we can play and be happy." That one sentence shook me awake. It reminded me that I wasn't just a grieving widow — I was a mother. And from that moment on, my entire life became about them.

With a tear-streaked face but a heart full of new determination, I stepped out of my sorrow and into society again. Fortune smiled upon me when I got the opportunity to join Symbiosis Junior College, Kiwale. Under the inspiring leadership of Pro-Chancellor Dr. Swati Majumdar Ma'am and the guidance of Principal Bhavana Ma'am, I found purpose again. My colleagues became my support system, and I regained my will to live — not for myself, but for my children.

Every step I took was to fulfill their dreams. My journey led me to a new chapter — a beautiful home at Jhamtani Ace Abode, Kiwale. It was the house my children dreamed of, and when we finally moved in, in April 2025, the sparkle in their eyes was the reward I had yearned for. Alongside my in-laws, and with Vighnesh and Dhanush by my side, our new home became the symbol of a fresh start.

Today, I stand not just as a mother, but as a woman who has reclaimed her life from the depths of grief. With the support of my family, workplace, and the blessings of the people around me, I am ready to walk new paths, build new memories, and nurture new dreams.

I sincerely seek your continued blessings and good wishes as we step into this new chapter of life.

Thank you.

Approval of Project Plans in PCMC

Auto-DCR – Operational Methodology at PCMC

Auto-DCR is an automated, web-based system adopted by the Pimpri Chinchwad Municipal Corporation (PCMC) to streamline and digitize the building plan approval process. Developed by Softech Engineers, it integrates CAD drawing scrutiny by mapping them to development control rules of Pimpri Chinchwad Municipal Corporation, document management, and workflow automation for efficient, transparent, and accountable building permissions.

Core Operational Workflow

Submission

- Architects prepare building drawings in AutoCAD using predefined standards (layers, naming, closed polylines, etc.).

- Drawings and required documents are submitted via a single window often on CD or digitally on the PCMC portal.
- AutoDCR reads data from submitted drawings using its AutoCAD compatibility. The process primarily consists of submission drawing done in standard format is opened in AutoDCR through BPAMS. AutoDCR reads data from drawing, establishes relationship between various entities.
- The proposal type, development, amalgamation, subdivision, land use residential/commercial, etc. is auto-detected by AutoDCR from drawing. BPAMS and AutoDCR is integrated to associate documental data with drawing.
- The system maps drawing entities to development control rules (DC rules) to ensure compliance.

- Using a rule database, AutoDCR checks for any variances automatically.

Automation Features

- Auto-Generation of Reports & Tables: Area Statement, FSI (Floor Space Index), Built-up Area, Parking, Schedule of Openings, Margin, Coverage reports, and more.
- Scrutiny Reports: Checklist (summary of scrutiny)
- Failed Rules Report (details of non-compliance)
- Drawing Scrutiny Report (full details of passed/failed rules with relevant values)
- Automated Alerts: Notifications are sent via email/SMS for status updates and delays.

Integrated Document Management

- Documental data (ownership, NOCs, affidavits) is linked with drawing files.
- Scanned documents and CAD files are archived digitally for future access.

Approval & Public Transparency

- MIS (Management Information System) reports and status are available for tracking by staff, architects, and citizens.
- Approved plans are accessible through the PCMC server, promoting transparency.
- Accountability is ensured with fixed timelines, and undue delays trigger alerts to higher authorities.

Post-Approval Utility

- Digitized data supports strategic decisions about urban growth and infrastructure planning by integrating with city survey maps.

Features of the System are:

- Auto-Triangulation: AutoDCR generates plot area diagram by triangulation method and plot area calculation itself for cross verification.
- Auto-Dimensioning with block diagram: AutoDCR generates block diagram for each floor and provide dimensions with area calculation.
- Auto-Generation of FSI and built-up area table: AutoDCR automatically inserts FSI and built-up area tables with per floor detail for each building. It also inserts FSI and builtup area table for whole project.
- Auto-Generation plot area table: AutoDCR automatically detects the type of layout proposal – amalgamation or subdivision and creates standard area table as per the case.
- Auto-Generation of Area-Statement: AutoDCR automatically inserts area statement with all proposed and permissible values in traditional format.
- Auto-Generation of schedule of opening and parking table: AutoDCR. Automatically inserts schedule of opening for each building, similarly inserts proposed parking for whole project.
- Auto-Hatching to particular object: AutoDCR provides hatching to particular objects as described in development control rules, e.g. green coloured hatch for main road, yellow coloured hatch in open space, etc. Section reading and association: It reads section, associates each floor plan with floor section and gives height of building and each floor by auto dimensioning.
- Margin Generation: AutoDCR generates required margin from main road, plot boundary, open space etc. It also shows proposed failed margin with auto dimensioning. Verification with actual coverage area: AutoDCR verifies built up area (maximum coverage area) proposed by auto punching of each floor plan automatically.

- Auto-Detection of building use: It can auto detect use of building (e.g. Residential, Commercial or mixed) and can also auto detect building Structure (e.g. high-rise building or low-rise building) by drawings only.

- Generation of Scrutiny Reports: AutoDCR generates the various scrutiny reports dynamically based on the DC rules. Generated report shows the failed/passed items with their rules in a very user friendly viewable/printable format. Reports can also be generated in local regional language. After scanning and saving the drawing, mainly three types of scrutiny reports are generated:

Apart from this the Auto DCR system has provided following key benefits to PCMC Uniformity & Standardization Approval procedure is uniform and easy to understand. All officials and stakeholders follow same processes, rules and regulations underlining uniformity and standardization.

Transparency Building plan approval procedure defined through Auto-DCR is highly process oriented and the progress of the file movement can be seen by department officials, architects and citizens at any point of time. Approved plans will be available on the server of PCMC for public access bringing in transparency in the system.

Accountability Every process has a fixed accountability with set time limit. The status of the proposal can be seen at any point of time with issues/remarks. Early alerts via SMS or WEB interface are sent to the higher officers on undue delays.

Strategic Decision Help The system when integrated with Digitized city survey maps will help to understand the development growth in the entire region. This will help to plan infrastructure effectively.

Operational Convenience and ease Simple and web interface provide ease of use and view from anywhere. Storing and retrieval of entire database of approved proposals is readily available in the system with various search options.

Improved business Processes Auto DCR enables predefined approval process through the workflow engine that has been configured as per PCMC workflow and delegation of powers for approvals. The workflow engine drives the approval process and connects to the AutoDCR Fire Rule Engine for compliance verification. With the implementation of Auto DCR building plan approval management system the job is now time driven, accurate, and accountable.

Real Estate 2025 : A Year of Rooted Optimism

Having been in the real estate business for more than a decade, I have learnt that this business is as much about people as it is about real estate. We at Jhamtani don't just construct houses—we construct trust, hopes, and communities. And looking towards the remainder of 2025, I have a subtle sense of optimism about where we are going.

The last couple of years have redefined the way folks think about space. Home isn't just a residence anymore—it's where we work, relax, connect, and dream. Buyers today are more knowledgeable, more discerning, and more interested in long-term value. That is a positive. It challenges all of us—developers, marketers, and sales teams—to get better.

In Pune, we're seeing a steady shift toward integrated living. Areas like Mulshi, Wakad, and Hinjewadi aren't just growing—they're transforming. With better infrastructure, improved connectivity, and a younger population looking for lifestyle-driven choices, the demand is real and rising.

2025 will be a year of transparency. Interest rates are stabilizing, regulations are clearer, and technology is enabling buyers to make better choices. But more than anything else, what matters most is how we make individuals feel. Are we hearing what they need? Are we giving them what they expect? Are we building homes that feel like home from day one?

At Jhamtani, we're committed to purposeful engagement—be it through experiential site visits, candid discussions, or reflective design. We think great real estate isn't merely a function of location or cost—it's about trust, timing, and vision.

If you want to know what gets me most pumped up about the coming year, it's this: the opportunity to not only build structures, but also relationships that stick. Because at the end of the day, real estate is about people. And that's precisely how we approach it.

Mr. Abhilash Patel
VP Sales & Marketing

A Journey Fueled by Passion and Jhamtani's Support

In the fast-paced world of real estate and construction, one thing remains constant—change. The need to adapt, learn, and evolve is no longer optional; it's essential. For working professionals like us, especially those rooted in dynamic industries, upskilling is the key to staying relevant and competitive. And when you have the strong backing of an organization like Jhamtani Group, that journey becomes not only possible—but empowering.

Four months ago, I embarked on a transformative journey—pursuing a Management Programme from IIM Ahmedabad. While the decision sounds bold in hindsight, I must admit, I wasn't always so confident. I questioned the timing, the workload, the ability to balance responsibilities. I thought, "Maybe next year?" But as we often say and rarely act upon—"tomorrows never come".

It was the unwavering support and encouragement from Mr. Anup Jhamtani Sir and Mrs. Meenakshi Jhamtani Ma'am that helped me silence the doubts. They didn't just extend financial assistance—they provided something far more valuable: emotional backing, daily motivation, and belief in my potential. Their constant nudging and confidence in me made me take the leap.

Today, I can proudly say that I've completed almost four months of the program, and the impact it has had on my thinking and working style is remarkable. Knowledge upgrades your vision. It helps you see the same challenges with new perspectives. Interacting with over 130 professionals from diverse industries has broadened my horizons and shown me how much there is still to learn, unlearn, and relearn.

The biggest learning? Skill upgradation is not a luxury. It's a responsibility. A responsibility we owe to ourselves, our organizations, and our teams.

Jhamtani Group is not just a workplace—it's an ecosystem that truly invests in the growth of its people. Having an employer that believes in empowerment through education makes all the difference. For anyone waiting for the "right time" to upskill—start today. If you have a dream and a team that supports you, the results will follow.

I extend my deepest gratitude to the leadership of Jhamtani Group for walking this journey with me and to my colleagues who've supported my dual role of a learner and a professional.

Let's keep learning. Let's keep growing

A New Chapter : Reflecting on My Experience at Jhamtani

It's never easy to bid adieu, especially when you've had so many great moments with a team that feels like family. As I ready myself to slow down at Jhamtani, I've been reflecting on my time here, which began on the 2nd of April, 2024. It felt like yesterday that I walked through the doors, a fresh face ready to take on a challenge. I had no idea that my first big project would find its way to me on my third day—the high-profile CREDAI Pune Metro Expo 2024. It was a whirlwind, a true test by fire, but one that paved the way for all the great work that followed.

Since then, I've had the great honor of spearheading the marketing initiatives for brand Jhamtani. The experience has been replete with hundreds of moments of glory, right from the thrill of different CREDAI expos to the happiness of celebrating our Diwali party, and the fulfillment of conducting possession events and project launches. I also enjoyed participating in the zestful Ace Cup and numerous other events that brought out the best in our brand. Each and every event was a reflection of the toil and effort put in by this team.

I would like to express my sincerest appreciation to the whole Jhamtani family. My experience here was all the more enjoyable as a result of the trust and guidance that I personally received from the management. They did not only delegate power to me, they trusted me, they placed their trust in me, and they allowed me to do my things with autonomy. That trust was priceless and allowed me to develop professionally and personally. I would also like to thank my colleagues on the floor. We actually worked as a team, and we overcame every hurdle that was placed before us. Your cooperation, team spirit, and support made every day a pleasure. We enjoyed victories, learned from losses, and we built something truly special together. What I have learned here will be with me for the rest of my life.

As I say goodbye with a smile on 17th July, 2025, part of me will always be grateful for this stay. Thanks, Jhamtani, for the memories, the experiences, and the friends. Wishing you all the best for the future.

Mr. Madhav Dhavane,

The Courage of Chetna Gala Sinha – A Banker for the Forgotten Women

A City Woman in a Village World

Chetna Gala was born in Mumbai in 1958, educated, and politically aware from a young age. But life took a surprising turn when she fell in love with and married a farmer, Vijay Sinha, and moved to Mhaswad – a place where the realities of rural India hit her hard.

She saw rural women managing money brilliantly in daily life, yet they had no access to formal banking. They were uneducated, undocumented, and invisible to financial institutions. When a group of women in her village tried to open savings accounts at a national bank, they were rejected for being “illiterate and too poor.”

That rejection sparked a revolution.

Creating a Bank by Women, for Women

In 1997, Chetna Gala Sinha founded the Mann Deshi Mahila Sahakari Bank, India’s first cooperative bank run entirely by rural women. It wasn’t easy — her application was initially rejected by the Reserve Bank of India. But she trained the women, resubmitted the proposal, and finally got approval.

The bank began with just Rs. 700,000 pooled from poor women, most of whom were daily-wage workers and street vendors. But this small step became a lifeline for thousands.

Today, Mann Deshi Bank has:

- Over 100,000 account holders
- Loans worth crores disbursed to women
- Financial literacy programs, digital training, and even a business school on wheels for rural women

Empowering the Grassroots Entrepreneur

Mann Deshi is more than a bank — it's a movement of economic independence. It helps women buy sewing machines, start tea stalls, build goat farms, and even scale small businesses into thriving enterprises.

One woman used her loan to buy a second-hand sewing machine. Today, she owns a boutique. Another bought a bullock cart, then a pickup van, and now runs a transport business.

Chetna often says, "Rural women don't need charity. They need access."

Recognition and Global Impact

Chetna Gala Sinha's work has been recognized globally. She has spoken at the World Economic Forum in Davos, served on government panels, and collaborated with international foundations. Yet, she remains rooted in her mission to uplift the most underrepresented women.

The Power of One Woman, Multiplied

Through financial access, confidence-building, and community trust, Chetna has turned thousands of rural women into first-generation entrepreneurs, decision-makers, and respected contributors to the economy.

In the heart of Maharashtra, she's proving every day that real empowerment starts at the grassroots — not in boardrooms, but in dusty lanes, markets, and villages.

"Empower a woman, and you empower a generation. Give her credit — and she will create capital." — Chetna Gala Sinha

Building Bonds Over Bites – The Jhamtani Way

A good workplace fosters a positive and inclusive environment where employees feel valued, respected, and motivated. It encourages open communication, collaboration, and professional growth while promoting work-life balance. Such a culture not only boosts productivity but also enhances overall job satisfaction.

At Jhamtani, we are committed to creating an all-inclusive atmosphere for our employees. Continuing this tradition, we introduced Foodie Fridays this year – an exciting twist on our earlier Fun-Fit Fridays. These employee engagement activities are thoughtfully conceptualized and executed by our Administration team. Typically held on the last Friday of every month, Foodie Friday brings together all departments at our Head Office for an hour of interactive fun and food-based games. To make it more engaging, we even invite external partners to add a special touch to the event.

The food and games are mostly planned according to different states of India. We try to implement the rural games with a modern touch. This not only increases the fun element but there are many Core values to learn from them which are ultimately necessary for each one's work life. We try and plan the snacks also according to the state of that month.

These thoughtfully curated experiences not only bring joy and refreshment to our teams but also celebrate the rich cultural diversity of India.

Through Foodie Fridays, we aim to strengthen camaraderie, encourage team spirit, and remind ourselves that learning and growth can come in the most enjoyable forms. At Jhamtani, we believe that when employees bond over culture, food, and fun, it naturally creates a stronger, more connected workplace.

Starting Strong: My First Podcast with Anup Jhamtani on TalkReal

When I set out to launch TalkReal—a podcast dedicated exclusively to the world of real estate—I knew I had to begin with someone who not only had an impressive track record, but also held deep credibility in Pune’s real estate landscape. After weeks of research and conversations, one name kept surfacing: Anup Jhamtani. The more I explored his work, the more I was convinced—this was the voice I wanted to introduce my show with.

From our first interaction to the moment he walked into the studio, everything moved at lightning speed. That’s when I realized: this pace wasn’t accidental. It was a reflection of Anup’s sharp decision-making and his unwavering commitment once he says yes.

It was my first-ever podcast recording, and I’ll admit—I was nervous. Sensing that, Anup casually asked, “Is this your first podcast?” I nodded. He smiled and said, “Don’t worry. You’re not going to like your work.” That caught me off guard. But before my anxiety could settle in, he added, “It takes time to get better at something new. Keep doing it, and you will evolve.”

That moment of honest encouragement lifted a huge weight off my shoulders. It also made me realize something deeper: he was here, despite knowing this wouldn’t be a polished episode. That kind of belief in someone just starting out—it means a lot. It also sparked a sense of responsibility in me—to ensure my very first podcast rose above expectations.

Our conversation spanned across Anup’s personal journey and professional milestones. His responses were thoughtful, clear, and deeply insightful. What struck me the most was his ability to dive deep into a subject while remaining concise and to the point. He spoke with clarity, conviction, and an infectious passion for his mission—transforming Pune’s infrastructure and elevating its lifestyle.

One particular moment that stayed with me was when I asked, “What’s your dream project?” His answer was telling: “Every next project is my dream project. I want my next work to always outdo the previous one.” That single line speaks volumes about his philosophy. He isn’t competing with the market—he’s competing with himself.

After sending him the final cut of the episode, I waited with bated breath for his feedback. His response?

“Very impressive work, Komal. You have a long way to go.”

Coming from someone of his stature, those words hold immense value.

Being from a real estate family myself, TalkReal is not just a podcast—it’s a passion project. My aim is to explore the minds behind the buildings: the people, the purpose, and the process that shape the skylines we live in. With every episode, I hope to uncover the vision and values of developers across the country.

And like Anup said about his projects, I say this about TalkReal—‘my dream podcast is always the next one.’

Designing Mindsets – An Architect's Perspective Beyond Spaces

Presenting on “Designing Mindsets” for Thoughtful Tuesday was not just another session — it was a journey of connecting our professional world to our inner world.

The turning point came when I compared the human mind to building elements. In real estate, we all know the importance of a strong foundation, a resilient structure, and a well-maintained facade. Similarly, in life:

- The foundation is our values,
- The structure is our habits, and
- The facade is our attitude.

The group activity brought this analogy to life. Everyone received a card with a building element — a wall, a window, a beam, or a door — along with a question to reflect on:

“Does this space match how I work or contribute to the team?”

One by one, people shared their thoughts and stories. Some drew surprising parallels, others offered light-hearted takes, but what stood out was the engagement in the room. Many found the exercise relatable, sparking new perspectives on their roles and contributions.

As an architect, it was a special feeling for me. In our daily life, we are used to designing spaces; this time, I had the chance to design mindsets. Knowing that this approach could create even a small impact or offer a fresh angle for people in our organization was truly rewarding.

The most heartwarming compliment I received was about my confidence and the way the content felt relatable. For me, that was proof that when we consciously design our mindset — just like we design a building — we not only shape our work but also the way we experience life.

Pull-Quote for Magazine Layout:

“This time, instead of designing spaces, I got to design mindsets — and that was the real blueprint for change.”

The Jhamtani Journey : A Deep Dive into Our Culture and Vision

Building on our initial overview, let's take a closer look at what truly makes Jhamtani a leader in the industry—our people, our culture, and our unwavering commitment to growth.

A Culture of Ambition and Innovation

At Jhamtani, our culture is a direct reflection of our young and passionate team. The average age of our core leadership is 40 years, with the overall company average at 34 years. This isn't just a statistic; it's a testament to the fresh energy, bold ideas, and innovative spirit that drive us forward. We believe in harnessing the power of youthful perspective to challenge the status quo and find creative solutions. Our meetings aren't about maintaining the predictable; they are vibrant sessions where every voice is heard, and the only agenda is to figure out what's best for the company and our clients right now.

Leadership That Inspires and Empowers

Our leadership team sets the tone for this dynamic environment. Mr. Anup Jhamtani, a man of boundless energy and ambition, steers our company's strategic vision. He fosters a culture of high performance and continuous improvement, ensuring we are always one step ahead. Alongside him, Ms. Meenakshi Jhamtani serves as a powerful role model, particularly for our women employees. Her leadership philosophy encourages everyone to set their own high standards and never settle. This dual-leadership approach has created a workplace that is not only gender-neutral but actively promotes equal opportunities, ensuring every team member has a clear path for growth and success.

Unmatched Employee Well-being

Our commitment to our team goes beyond opportunities. We recently conducted a comprehensive survey of the Pune real estate industry, and the results speak for themselves. Jhamtani received the highest rankings for employee welfare, performance-based variable pay, and work-life balance. This recognition is a direct result of our dedication to our people's holistic well-being. We offer all the necessary statutory and social security benefits, but we also go the extra mile with activities like Thoughtful Tuesdays and Foodie Fridays that build strong interpersonal bonds. Our regular events, from Foundation Day celebrations to Roadmap Day discussions, are rituals that foster a sense of belonging and shared purpose, transforming a team into a family.

Growing Together: The Future of Jhamtani

The trust our leadership places in young talent is truly rare. As we embark on new launches and expand our reach, we're not just growing as a company; our employees are growing with us. We're witnessing horizontal and vertical upgrades across the organization, creating new leadership roles and opportunities for everyone to scale their abilities. The challenges we face daily are seen not as obstacles, but as chances to learn and evolve. This is a journey we are all on together, and the collective energy to be a part of such an exciting team is what makes Jhamtani a brand built for the future.

Mr. Chaitanya Panchpor
Head - Human Resources

Growing Through Trust: The JTribe referral Platform

At Jhamtani, we've always believed that real estate is more than just buildings—it's about people, relationships, and trust. And when someone refers us to their friends or family, it's not just a transaction. It's a compliment. It's someone saying, "I believe in what you do."

That kind of trust is priceless.

The Heart Behind Referrals

Let's be honest—most of us don't recommend something unless we've had a genuinely good experience. That's why referrals are so powerful. They come from a place of authenticity. When a homeowner tells their cousin about their smooth experience with us, or when an employee shares our latest project with a friend, it's real. It's personal. And it's incredibly effective.

In fact, across the industry, referrals consistently outperform traditional advertising. They're faster, more cost-effective, and they bring in clients who already have a level of trust in us.

What Makes a Good Referral Program?

We've been studying what works—and what doesn't. A good referral program should feel rewarding, not transactional. It should be easy to understand, simple to use, and genuinely worth someone's time.

Here's what we're focusing on:

Clarity: No fine print. Just clear, honest terms.

Dual Rewards: Both the referrer and the referee should feel appreciated.

Ease of Use: Whether it's through our website, app, or a quick phone call, the process should be smooth.

A Personal Touch: A thank-you call, a handwritten note, or an invite to an exclusive event—small gestures go a long way.

What's Next for Jhamtani's Referral Program?

We're working on something exciting. A refreshed referral policy that reflects who we are and how much we value our community. Think tiered rewards, curated experiences, and a more digital-friendly interface. But most importantly, it'll be built around gratitude.

Because every referral is someone putting their reputation on the line for us—and that deserves more than just a reward. It deserves recognition.

Let's Keep Building Together

As we grow, let's not forget what got us here: trust, relationships, and word-of-mouth. Our referral program isn't just a marketing tool—it's a celebration of the people who believe in us.

So here's to our homeowners, our employees, our partners—and to every single person who's ever said, "You should check out Jhamtani."

We see you. We appreciate you. And we're building something special—together.

Our Executive Director Takes the Stage at CREDAI Women Wing's Zonal Meet

I am incredibly proud to share that our Executive Director, Mrs. Meenakshi Jhamtani, recently delivered a powerful presentation at the CREDAI Women Wing's 1st Zonal Meet in Baramati. The event was a gathering of developers and leaders, she sharing her expertise was a testament to her vision and hard work.

The presentation, titled "From Legacy to Leadership - Transformation from a Family-driven setup to a Professional Company," was a deep dive into the Jhamtani story. It perfectly encapsulated the journey from a family-run business to the professionally managed organization we are today. She spoke about how our initial business structure, while built on a strong family legacy and values, had limitations due to a lack of formal structure.

A Blueprint for Professional Growth

Her talk highlighted the critical need for transformation. She detailed the strategic shifts that have been instrumental in our growth, focusing on key pillars like people and culture, and systems and processes. She concisely explained how we implemented performance frameworks and Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs) to bring order to the chaos. The introduction of an ERP system and a focus on customer centricity through initiatives like "JTribes" were also key points of her talk.

The Rewards of Transformation

The presentation was not just about the challenges; it was a celebration of our achievements. She proudly shared the tangible results of our transformation, including improved efficiency and timely delivery. The enhanced brand value, with all our projects maintaining Google ratings of 4.5 and above, was a particularly impressive point that resonated with the audience.

She speaking about these accomplishments was a huge source of motivation. Her message about the importance of embracing change, investing in people, and the power of communication was a reminder of the values that drive our company. The audience, which included other developers and industry leaders, was captivated by her insights. It was a proud moment, seeing our Executive Director inspire others and represent the incredible journey we've been on.

The Jhamtani Roadmap 2025-26

A Vision for Tomorrow

Jhamtani's Roadmap Day 2025-2026 was a powerful blend of reflection and strategic planning, marking the path for our next chapter. We spent a full day meticulously charting our course for the new financial year, reaffirming our commitment to our core values of Innovation, Best Practices, and Customer Centricity.

Our roadmap outlines a clear strategic focus on key initiatives:

Technology Enhancement: Integrating advanced solutions like ERP systems and new construction software to boost efficiency.

The JTribe Initiative: A renewed focus on building vibrant communities and fostering a strong sense of belonging for our residents.

The HAS Promise (Hamesha Aapke Saath): Strengthening our dedication to customer satisfaction and building lasting relationships.

This year is particularly special as it marks the culmination of Jhamtani's fourth decade in business. We extend our deepest gratitude to our entire ecosystem—customers, partners, and, most importantly, our dedicated employees—who have been instrumental in our success.

As we move forward with a clear path and a strong foundation, our message remains optimistic: Onwards and Upwards... Jhamtani. We are excited to continue "Crafting the Skylines of Pune" with even more ambitious and impactful projects.

Mr. Shubham Sonawane
Assistant Manager - Admin

Professional Growth and Team Coordination - Perspective from Operations Team

Working with the Jhamtani Crafting Skyline Group has given me many positive and valuable experiences. One of the most important realizations I've had is that when you focus on your personal growth, you naturally contribute to the overall growth of the company. Personal and professional development go hand-in-hand with organizational success.

Building Responsibility and Confidence

When an individual takes responsibility for a task and completes it with dedication and accuracy, it not only boosts their confidence but also enhances their value within the team. This process lays the foundation of one's professional identity, which is primarily shaped by the opportunities and responsibilities entrusted by the company.

Working with a mindset of "this is my responsibility" creates a deeper understanding of the job and its challenges. It nurtures learning, self-respect, and accountability. Over time, when duties are performed sincerely, it results in a strong professional identity and internal confidence.

The Role of Ownership in Team Building

Ownership fosters a sense of belonging, and team coordination becomes stronger. When every team member works with dedication, it builds mutual trust. Collaboration becomes smoother, and individuals begin to support each other more effectively.

Personally, I have not only focused on fulfilling my responsibilities in civil engineering projects but also on the growth of my team. By instilling confidence, assigning responsibilities, and helping them grow, I have witnessed how their self-esteem and professional identity begin to evolve – ultimately benefiting the entire organization.

Key Focus Areas in Civil Engineering Projects

1. How to manage work progress in civil engineering?

- Important Points:

Create daily plans – Clearly define what work is to be done and how much manpower is needed.

Maintain site registers/Excel updates – Accurately record daily work progress.

Take step-by-step photos – Capture before/after images to show clear progress.

Target-based execution – Set weekly milestones and work towards them.

Material and labor planning – Ensure timely availability of both.

2. How to coordinate effectively with the team?

- Effective Methods:

Daily morning briefings – Hold a 10–15-minute discussion to clarify “Who is doing what today?”

Clearly define roles – Assign responsibilities to supervisors, foremen, and workers.

Use WhatsApp/communication groups – Share regular updates and keep everyone informed.

Single point communication – Avoid confusion by issuing instructions through a single chain of command.

Respect + Feedback – Appreciate good work and explain mistakes calmly and constructively.

3. How to work with your team for company growth?

Team-focused growth strategies:

1. Build trust – Trust your workers and value their contributions.

2. Train, don't blame – Focus on teaching rather than punishing when mistakes happen.

3. Listen to everyone's problems – A happy team is like a strong company.

4. Share the vision with your team – Everyone should know: “Where are we going?”

5. Hold monthly meetings – Analyze performance and plan for the coming month.

6. Implement a reward system – Small prizes or recognition boost motivation and morale.

Conclusion:

Progress = Proper time planning + Quality + Safety

Coordination = Strong communication + Respect + Clarity

To grow the company, adopt a people-first approach

Bringing Real Estate to the Classroom : Jhamtani Engages with Future MBAs

As part of our continuous effort to represent Jhamtani as an industry thought leader, I had the opportunity to accompany Mr. Abhilash Patel, VP – Sales & Marketing, for a special session with the MBA freshers of Indira College.

The session was designed to bridge the gap between academics and industry by offering students a practical understanding of the real estate landscape, with Pune as the core market of discussion.

Mr. Patel's presentation rooted around key areas such as:

The evolving structure of real estate sales in the post-RERA era

The role of channel partners, digital platforms, and data-driven strategies

Insights into buyers' behaviour, pricing decisions, and project positioning

Real-time examples from Jhamtani's current and past projects

What made the session particularly engaging was the level of interaction it sparked. The students showed strong interest in understanding career roles, industry challenges, and the future of real estate marketing, asking thoughtful questions and drawing meaningful insights from the discussion.

This engagement not only reinforced Jhamtani's reputation as a brand deeply rooted in market knowledge, but also reflected our intent to influence, inspire, and support the next generation of professionals.

Moments like these serve as a reminder that our work extends beyond sales and development – it includes being educators, mentors, and ambassadors of the industry we lead.

Representing Jhamtani in such forums is not just a responsibility – it's a reflection of the leadership, expertise, and credibility we've built as a team. Here's to many more such meaningful interactions that take our presence beyond the boardroom.

As we close another remarkable year, it gives me immense pride to reflect on our journey and the milestones we've achieved at Jhamtani Cera-kraft, a leading destination for premium tiles and Jaquar bathroom fittings. In an industry as dynamic and design-driven as tiles and bath fittings, the role of operations goes far beyond logistics and inventory management. It is the backbone that enables customer satisfaction, supply chain efficiency, and business scalability. As an Operations Head, my focus lies in aligning our internal processes with market demands while ensuring the organization remains agile, resilient, and forward-thinking.

Operational excellence has always been key factor of our showroom's success. The past year has been one of transformation, resilience, and relentless commitment to delivering excellence not just in products, but in the overall customer experience. This year, we undertook a thorough revamp of our inventory management systems, ensuring faster stock replenishment, reduced lead times, and better forecasting. Our team has implemented advanced ERP systems to gain real-time visibility into stock levels, lead times, and sales performance. We also enhanced our warehousing and logistics operations, ensuring better coordination across our supply chain. Our backend efficiency has enabled us to keep pace with the evolving preferences of our customers, offering them a seamless experience from selection to installation.

As a trading company, our success hinges on the robustness of our supplier and channel partnerships. Our partnerships with vendors and suppliers, especially Jaquar, Fun Enterprises, and other known for its innovation and quality, have been further strengthened to ensure timely delivery and premium service.

As we look to the future, our focus will remain on three key pillars:

People: Investing in the development and well-being of our team

Purpose: Delivering value beyond products through service, trust, and ethical business practices

Progress: Staying at the forefront of industry innovation, digitization, and sustainability

In closing, I would like to thank our dedicated staff, loyal customers, and trusted partners. It is their unwavering support that fuels our operations and inspires us to raise the bar every single day.
